Skin Benefits

Partially hydrogenated soyabean oil is commonly used in processed foods and beauty products for its emulsifying and stabilizing properties. It helps to improve texture and preserve the shelf life of food products and cosmetics.

Functionality

Easily-Absorbed

Quickly absorbs into the skin without leaving a greasy residue. Lightweight and ensures fast penetration, delivering essential nutrients and hydration for a smooth and nourished complexion.

Hair Benefits

Explore the unique properties of partially hydrogenated soyabean oil (32) for your haircare formulations. This ingredient contributes to the structure and texture of your products, providing a conditioning element for your hair. Embrace the benefits of partially hydrogenated soyabean oil for a well-rounded and effective haircare routine.

Emollient

Softens and smooths the skin, creating a protective barrier that locks in moisture. It is particularly beneficial for dry, rough, and chapped skin, providing deep hydration and improving the skin's texture.
